

Business Process Management (BPM)

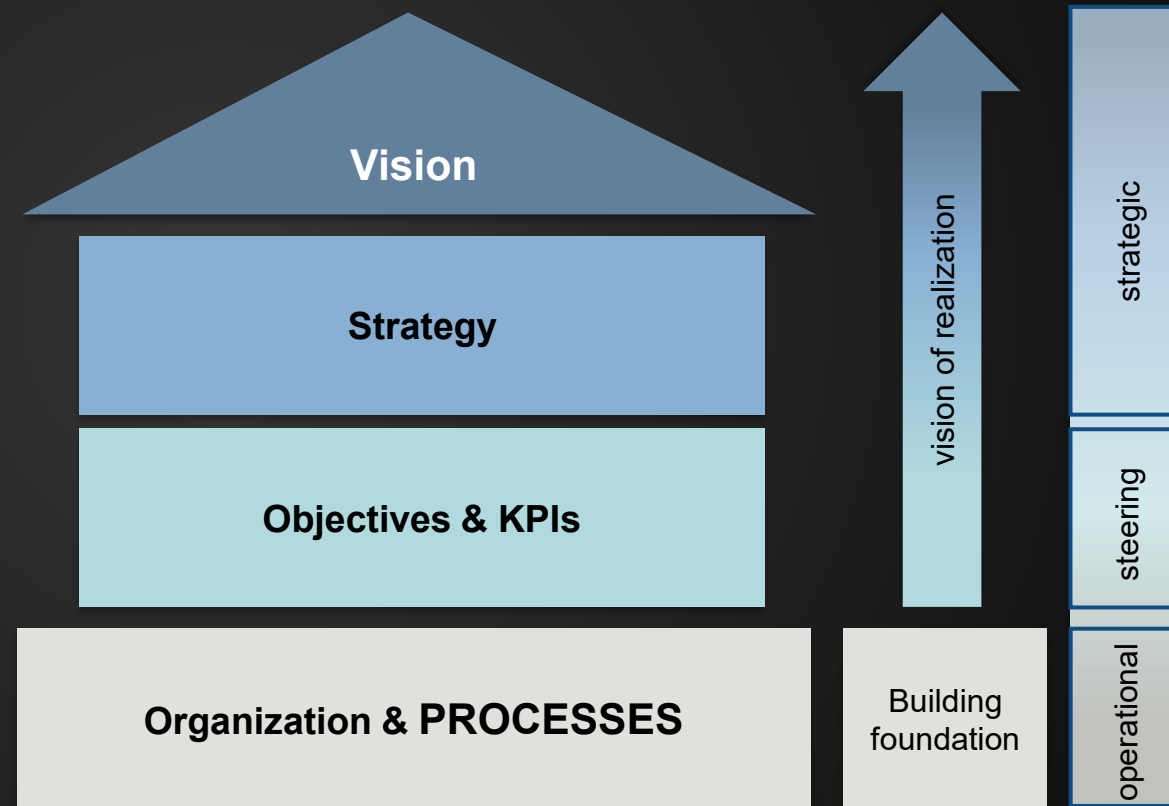

+ Challenges in BPM

The digital transformation couldn't be stopped and faces the textile branch with growing complex challenges. To remain successful in daily business as well as in software project, efficiently and flexible processes all over the entire company are crucial. To form successfully the classical hierarchical organization to a process-driven organization, a lot of challenges have to be overcome. And not only concerning process but also concerning people and systems.

+ The GCS methodology

On our proven and standardized methods, we develop a process management which is especially adjusted to the customers need. During the transformation we support the customer on demand in each phase of the project.
